NEWS FROM BEYOND THE PALE

Not Really Cuts - Just Efficiencies

The Township decision to cut back drastically on costly items in the budget, like road maintenance or schools and recreation programmes will result in substantial savings for the taxpayer. "We have found that we can pare down run away expenses for education and policing in the Odessa area by employing out of work actors. Mayor Edsel Furd explains, "It is great. It lifts a whole raft of people off N.I., no worries about benefits or pensions either. As far as I can see it's all win-win. We can source any number of actors to play highway repair engineers and stand around in high-viz jackets peering despondently into potholes on the highway. This has got to be seen in the light of efficiencies."

Bustin Bieber Paternity Suit

Seventeen girls from Odessa High School have joined together in a class action paternity suit against the Canadian singing phenomenon Justin Bieber. All of the girls have been participating in the accredited Grade 11 course option 'Practical Pop Pups - Unlock the Lifestyle - how to Like-make it Like-happen in your Like-life'

They allege that their encounters with the star occurred after their class had been invited to visit backstage to see the star after his performance at the Air Canada Centre in Toronto. They were bussed down as a group to attend the sold out event. "Like-it all happened so like-quickly. Like-we were invited to like-see the star in his like-dressing room after the like-performance. It was like-soo..oh, like-..., like-just soo...oh like-awesome. Like I go is this like-really like-happening like-to me."

Each of the girls was given a one-on-one encounter with the star during which he autographed a photo of himself and showed them his memorabilia. "Like-I don't think any one of us was like-in there for more than like 30 seconds, but like-that is all it like takes to fall in love with the guy!" explained Tilda Blemm, spokesperson for the plaintiff group.

DNA analysis will be crucial in confirming the paternity of the offspring. Summing up the first day of the hearing while awaiting indisputable genetic confirmation Judge Stropp stated:

"Whatever the final outcome of the DNA analysis there is no doubt that Odessa is headed for a major baby boom. Two of the girls are evidently carrying twins. All nineteen babies may reasonably be expected to arrive within hours of each other. Delivery services will be taxed to their limit in all locally available maternity units. The community will be obliged to make costly special provisions for a major onslaught upon their services for years to come. The issue is particularly thorny because all parties involved are below the age of consent. It clearly will not be practicable to sentence all parties to undertake community work in lieu of detention provisions. These girls are decidedly 'pro-life' and unwilling to relinquish their opportunity to bring up a Baby Bieber." Justin Bieber has declined to comment. However a rash of paternity suits is beginning to compromise the career of the 16 year old pop pup. Sponsors are growing nervous about sustaining his clean cut image and considering their options to perhaps create something a little more edgy with the material. "It may not be practical to sustain the image of the lost soul crooning in a flurry of snowflakes indefinitely," his director of press relations Xenghis Bifurkin stated. This may be a cataclysmic loss to humanity."

National Debate

In times of international crisis Canada's leaders always agree that it is important to get back to basics. Following Sen. Nichole Eaton's plea that the white supremacist polar bear floating around on its elitist iceberg in the globally warmed and liberated North West Passage should be substituted for the dentally challenged rodents that attack her summer cottage, the debate has developed with energy and considerable acrimony.

There is a general consensus emerging that we should try to anthropomorphise Canada's national symbol. P.M. Sharper has stepped into the raging debate. "The Canadian way of life is principally the vision of human beings; the animals tend to just go with the flow, which is very good of them." CanGraph, the newly formed Commission on the Future of the National Identity has proposed a group of multi-racial, multi-sexual, multi-ethnic, multi-cultural and multi-happy smiling people be clustered on an iceberg floating in a arctic blue background. This however has drawn the ire of societies and institutes dedicated to protect the physically and mentally challenged (and has also proven very hard to draw) Many issues of hegemony and precedence are thrown up in the juxtaposition of these multi-people.

The National Campaign for a Smiley Face (NCSF) have proposed a single unified image symbol which has little connotation of race, colour, creed or sexuality. "It is also easier to draw, you don't have to be da Vinci" explains the chairman of the Campaign for National Unity. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind have offered full backing as long as the smiley face is ambiguously concealed behind dark glasses to suggest that visual deficiency is not an issue. The Institute for the Deaf insists that ears should not be included out of respect for the hearing impaired but that a small hearing aid should be displayed alongside. The Canadian Centre for Addiction and Mental Health demand that sobriety take the place of buffonic good spirits. They insist on a straight line "connoting an even and well balanced spirit" should be substituted for any fatuous curve. Recognising that he is onto a good thing and an issue that will fully preoccupy the nation in a time of travail, Prime Minister Even Sharper has further suggested that the national motto should be updated as well. A Mare Usque ad

Mare has become highly ambiguous since the opening of the North-West Passage to shipping. The PM's office is suggesting instead 'Seas the Opportunity' as a suitable alternative which pays homage to the inordinate amounts of water that surround Canada on all sides.

Some zealots keen to reopen the Canadian Flag debate have pointed out that the Maple Leaf is currently under threat from the nefarious Chinese Leaf Miner Beetle which is currently crossing the Pacific Ocean on little leaf sampans.

The Odessa Oracle is promoting the change from the decaying autumnal leaf image to more progressive technology such as the image of an array of solar panels (also easier to draw for the graphically challenged) This would replace the outdated image of failing photo-synthesis for photovoltaic science.

Odessa Eco Park

The Township Office Planning Department, intent on making Odessa 'the Greenest Town

North of the Amazon' is reviewing proposals for a Eco Tourist Park to be located east of Rees Road and between Highway 2 and the 401. The famous resort architects Dazzle and Dreck have developed extensive plans for a carbon neutral community for upwards of 1,000 guests who will be accommodated in individual 'yurtigloos' (patent pending) which will be scattered holus bolus across the landscape. The yurtigloos will be constructed of 100% indigenous materials sourced directly from the site, including strips of bear hide interwoven with reeds and mouse hair matted with lard. Hordon Dreck is cagey about the ingredients of the mix. "We have key patents pending on this process and we are keen to safeguard our secret until the intellectual property is securely in place. But suffice it to say that we have discovered some very interesting attributes of pig dung which may revolutionise the whole eco-village concept.

Parking will be provided off site - and guests will be expected to walk to their 'yurtigloos'. Above all we want to provide an experience that is uniquely Canadian." The developers are taking a historicist approach and recreating a community that would have existed in this location at the end of the last ice age when global warming was something that was fervently looked forward to. The landscape at the time would have been a glacier strewn quagmire on the edge of the great Lake Iroquois. "This is intended to be a zero energy community and we will not tolerate a single redundant kilocalorie. This will suit many peoples lifestyles. We expect our clients to come in and just 'veg' out. We intend this to be a completely autarchic community. The development will place the eco-tourists in their yurtigloos each supplied with its own hearth and ancillary livestock tethered alongside.

"We are engineering a welcoming environment for all the family and that, of course, includes the family pet. Our mini Pet-u-lurts afford full protection for your pet from ravening bears or sabre tooth cat attack.

F.I.T.-ing into Odessa

The Snitford farm are at the forefront of those intending to participate in the OPA's Feed In Tarriff programme. The historic Snitford barns have been upgraded and an impressive solar array installed atop those venerable old timbers. The ambitious owners intend to supply 5 Giga Watts to the local grid enough power to supply a quadrupling of the local population.

Virtual Odd-essy

Following the success of Farmville, an enterprising group, LifeMasters based in Odessa has set up Virtual Odd-essy, an acquisitive reality game which allows virtual people to participate in the creation of virtual history. Now you can invest in shaping world history the way that you have wanted it to be in the first place and rewrite its more deficient chapters. Now you can now bring forth the true heroes and win battles that were long ago lost. The Grand Palace of the Lord High Acolyte of Baal which has been created on territory once occupied by the Wilton Cheesery has become a rallying point for LifeMasters who are planning a whole new, and much more intelligible universe. History is recreated in 'hai-ku twitterbits', seventeen syllables at a time. As consensus builds up interactively, the society adjusts to accommodate it. Emerging as cornerstones of civilisation the Descendants of Khan have created the community of unparalleled wealth and power. But they are coming into conflict with Daughters of Marilyn libertarians who have different historical objectives and have amassed an astonishing army of over 600 million Monroe lookalikes.

Odessa High School Library to Close

Mayor Edsel Furd explained to school trustees that the Odessa High School was expected to bear its share of the cuts under the new regime: Faint Hope and Austerity.

"It is unconscionable indeed that OHS should dedicate a whole room and a member of staff to the running of such a facility which panders only to a minority elite who can read or have the spare time to spend staring at books. Such a space could be much better put to use as a Tim Horton's franchise, which would be a source of real income located within the school. Just look at Toronto's experience of excessive library provision.

"But this has got to happen under the radar. We don't want to have some cow like Margaret Attwood campaigning to keep yet another library open."

"After years of tolerating conspicuous waste under my predecessors the new council is looking for everyone to tighten their belts a notch or two to make our program of austerity more conspicuous."

"We want to ensure that Odessa remains forever an Attwood free zone."

MoO-MoO Masterpiece Pentimentos Uncovered

Painterly Pentimentos discovered by da Vinci Art restoration experts have suggested that da Vinci's grounding in biblical history may have been at times flawed. Undertaking a close forensic analysis of the famed Madonna of the Rocks currently in the Moo-Moo collection with the most up-to-date equipment they have discovered alarming anomalies or pentimentos' which da Vinci is thought to have expunged from his later versions. Underlying the layers of exquisitely rendered paint is somewhat more detached feminine presence displaying the head of John the Baptist to the two boys, neither of whom look concerned about her macabre play.

The Odessa Planning Department has turned down a proposal for a pedestrian precinct which would provide safe and secure designated bike lanes on Centre Street. Mayor Edsel Furd explains "This would involve complex signalling gear and video camera installations to ensure car exclusion from this area. This cannot be justified in an age of austerity. We've got to keep with the program here."

Horace Duegood who was spearheading the campaign Cycling for City Livers revealed his disappointment. "Centre Street is a perfect opportunity to provide this kind of civilised urban environment which they enjoy in all the great urban environments across Europe. It is an ideal situation as well in that it goes nowhere that anyone needs to go anyway."

Dear

Aggie

a weekly syndicated column with Agnus O'Nant B.Psych, MPD, mem. SICCO

Dear Aggie,

I want to bring to you attention the defective service offered by The Gene Genie and ask your advice on how to remediate some of the disastrous consequences of following their programme.

My husband Clem and I decided that we wanted to contribute exemplary children to the world, kids who would respond well to the challenges facing this coming century. I have no problems with my own genetic inheritance but we both agreed that Clem's was less than optimal and so we sought the assistance of Gene-Genie. We opted for two children, a boy and a girl, to be born as twins. I specified that the girl would be a blonde bombshell, dazzling blue eyes and an Einstein level IQ, rather like me. Clem's specs for the boy were more modest, tall, raven haired, green eyed, also with an IQ in the high 180's.

The only other attributes that we stipulated was that they would both have an appetite for the good life - that the girl would be a concert pianist and the boy an olympic class sportsman (we specified lugging) We felt that these talents would help to sustain us in our declining years. Regrettably the Gemma that has developed looks more like a piano than sounds like one. As for Gemmo, his appetite for life has transferred into a daunting display of orthodontics. Nor do we have any idea what to do with the 17 micro humanoid assistants that were provided unsolicited by Gene-Genie who insisted that our children would need stimulating playmates. They are eating us out of catfood, house and home. I would firstly like to advise others that they should read the small print very carefully in dealing with Gene-Genie and than solicit you advice on how Clem and I can address this disastrous situation.

Yours Sincerely,

Veracity Vittle

Dear Veracity,

I am a great believer in Life being an Adventure at all costs. You have been more adventurous than most however with sadly unsatisfactory results. In my latest best-seller 999 Things That You Should Do Before You Die I have set out many intriguing options for enhancing one's life scope. In your case seeing the Taj Mahal by moonlight will not significantly ameliorate the problems that you are describing so I would suggest that you start at the other end of the list and work back from 999. Please find following some of the helpful section headings from these latter entries which will give a flavour of what may be accomplished and will undoubtedly transform your family life.

Yours Solicitously,

Aggs

Hockey Violence Training Camp

Enrolment for Odessa Hockey Violence Training Camp is underway at ShellLube to select candidates keen to crest on the current wave of hockey violence. Candidates for try outs must prove both themselves and their parents in a gruelling slugathon which will separate the star seeds from the pulp. Coach Vlad Hulkmeister explains "Many parents are particularly drawn to our camp facilities because we offer an in-house brain surgery clinic to address personality disorders resulting from repeated bashing of the head with hockey sticks." Minnie-Me Hulkmeister who is emerging as potential major league material explains, "Most of the kids also appreciate the opportunity to channel their parents' aggressions away from themselves and onto each other. This results in spectacular rink side confrontations that out rate anything that takes place on ice. Our kids keep calling out for more."

Spontaneous CombustionSupport Group

Many people in the Odessa area have seen their loved one go up in smoke. One moment they are sitting happily in their favourite armchair watching America's Got Talent and the next you discover two smouldering shoes on the carpet before the La-Z-Boy. Most people can hardly believe their eyes. Many have tried to forestall such eventuality by travelling at all times with a personal pocket fire extinguisher or by dragging a bundle buggy equipped with pails of water and pump, but there are few instances where either recourse has proven an effective prophylactic. There is no known cure or prevention for HSC, it is a tragedy potentially hanging over every head. Now however you can reduce the chances of you or your loved ones simply going up in smoke. With Incen-D-Salve applied after your daily bath or shower affords hours of protection against HSC incidents. Some people like to enhance performance further by simply remaining in the shower at all times.

Local Wiki-Hackers

A Local Odessa Hacker is wanted by the FBI for a Wiki Leaks style infiltration into top secret US Military strategies for maintaining world hegemony. Dermot Deen of 17b Potemkin Street, Odessa, hacked into the high security facility at Fort Blogg and leaked the codes that could unleash nuclear Armageddon if the Forces of Evil should ever happen to consult the Wiki Leaks web site article ZY-28,473-clause B (para ii). Deen has now gone into hiding in an effort to evade extradition to the United States. But many other countries are also lining up with similar extradition applications underway and it may be a mad dash to see who gets to him first.

Deen discovered the so-called 'Armageddon Code' which accompanies the President on all his holidays. Sadly a security lapse occurred last year when the President visited a delicatessen on an informal walkabout in Pooksie, Virginia and inadvertently left with the wrong lunch box. Maksur bin Khalifa al

Kalb who was enjoying his lunch there returned home to a nasty surprise. He has subsequently been inducted into the upper echelons of the US Military. Deen was however able to hack into his account and release the vital code information to Wiki Leaks thus putting the whole American way of life into jeopardy. If extradited Deen faces instant capital punishment in the US, no questions asked. Sarah Palin has proposed an auto de fe and volunteered in her own car. Sentencing has already been determined in camera by a supreme military tribunal at Fort Blogg. However Deen's parents are unanimous in protesting his innocence. "Dermie is a gormless idiot. He never goes out and has no friends so being in hiding will make no difference to his life. The fact that we are being offered an all expenses paid sojourn at Fort Blogg ourselves is not sufficient inducement. Anyways we would like to review the fine print to gauge the spirit of this offer."

Rogue Trader Places the World Banking System at Risk

A local Odessa trader working for his own start up trading house styled the World International Clothing Corporation has again thrown the world banking system into jeopardy with the extent of his unsuccessful investments on behalf of the WICC.

Cotter DeWart has been described by Jack Trim-purse, the acting head of the World International Bank as being 'an evil genius' who was able to secretly borrow $476 billion over a 4 year period since the banking meltdown in 2008. All of this money has subsequently 'gone missing'.

"This is a substantial sum, but using duplicitous methods DeWart was able to bypass our bank's stringent controls to place substantial short positions on international clothing stocks. His devious skill for evasion of detection was such that no one noticed these vast shortfalls in our current accounts ledgers until years after the fact."

"Even our auditor and accountants were quite non-plussed by his brazen effrontery in thinking that he could evade stringent check systems for so long."

Trim-purse railed in exasperation. "But his day has come. It is just a pity that he had to take the world banking system with him."

Explaining his nuanced business plan De Wart admitted, "Well everyone was betting that everything would go up and I realised that with very little risk to myself I was in a position to take a substantial short position betting that clothing was one item people might decide to do without."

"I can only say how deeply sorry I am for wiping out the entire world Banking system and civilisation as we know it. This was never part of my plan."

De Wart sits in illustrious company with celebrities like Nick Larceny who brought down the Barings Bank, glamorous Frenchman Jerome Kerviel who lost $8 billion and Ghanaian master-of-the-universe-in-training Kweku Avabollsi who recently brought the Swiss UBS to its knees.

The breadth of De Wart's genius has been so trumpeted abroad that offers have flooded in from financial institutions around the world who are clamouring to bring him on side.

Many banks are competing to offer top positions to such mavericks so the outlook is therefore not totally dire.

Anton Krill the former chief trader at Goldbag Sacks explains the phenomenon. "Since the banking crisis of 2008 the high level talent has moved away from the market, attracted by more lucrative opportunities elsewhere."

This has left the field open to neophytes like Cotter and Kweku, boys who are barely out of college, no experience, well intentioned of course but finding it difficult to become masters of the universe and cope effectively with the trillions of dollars that flood through their hands daily."

He ended on a more optimistic note "Once Cotter has released his definitive bestseller and sold the film rights, possibly with Ewen Macgregor playing the lead role, any personal budgetary blip should be overcome in no time flat."

Join the Queue for the LOO Lets Occupy Odessa! the One Percent

Modern enhancements in the science of Detention Design would undoubtedly have delighted nineteenth century prison reformers like John Howard and Elizabeth Fry. The modern jail casts the science of incarceration in a new and progressive light. The jail has become a place of repose and introspection as well as an opportunity to build up a social network and trade expertise among like-minded individuals. Jail design has indeed leapt forward into the twenty first century and the Canadian experience can be second to none. The Canadian government is keen to emulate the standards set by the United States where up to 1% of the population is accommodated in detention facilities.

A local Design Group which has styled itself The One Per Cent - Lets Occupy! has developed the 'dernier cri' in prefab and prefabulous detention facilities. Their patented Jail-o-Mat prefabricated modules are delivered to site complete with shower, toilet facilities, beds (already made up) and flat screen internet all moulded in indestructible, monolithic 'plasti-conc' (patent pending) In the words of the ecstatic architects - "We Design 'em and you just stack 'em up!"

The Jail-o-Mat units are completely self-energised with 100% green credentials. Dense stacking and restricted ventilation allows substantial energy savings and a greening life-style experience for the detainees. Supplementary Pee Vee power sources provide for full social networking facilities. "You never need to leave home" explains Bugs Zapit, also known as the Puny Bomber who is serving non concurrent 23 life sentences for his role in bringing the eastern seaboard to its knees. Our food is grown hydroponically within the individual cells. "They have got the food footprint down to exactly zero" exults Governor Drako Malfoy. "And there is no need for any other amenities. We find that our Jay-Bees (Jail Birds) are happy to sit around twittering all day without recourse to any other forms of recreation more expensive to provide."

My Spiritual Quest by Bernie Madoff

Bernie Madoff is one of the world's most successful and sought after motivational speakers currently serving 428 life sentences in the US penal system at Lotusville, which will see his release in 150 years time. He is the invited artist in residence at Kingston Correctional Services over the festive season. Having recently converted to the Church of the Last Trump he has been sharing an uplifting message with prison populations around the world. "I have never been so busy in my life, exhausting travel, every night a new cell. I have really taken to the pastoral duties and have grown to share a deep empathy with my flock." As for life in prison Bernie is always upbeat. "They call me Uncle Bernie. I can't walk anywhere without someone shouting out encouragement. It's really quite sweet, how concerned everyone is about my well being, including the staff...It's much safer here than walking the streets of New York." Bernie's book, My Spiritual Quest, goes on sale this week. The first 100 orders received get 75% off the recommended list price; the rest will pay full price. Re-Imaging Sarah Palin

Following the success of Going Pogue, Sarah's latest book Gotcha focuses on the success story of the Bin Laden takeaway.

"What we saw there was a triumph of good old American no-how. But I don't for a moment give any credit to those losers in the Whitehouse; they all just watched it on television. As always it was our brave young men and girls in the services that I look up to. They were the ones who swept in and blew him to bits."

"There can be little in so to speak."

Vesuvia warms to the subject. "As so many of the people in Odessa will know our family has endured a litany of very bad luck in many of the local firetraps that we have occupied in recent years have proven to be highly combustible and non-compliant with current fire codes." "One of the great advantages of the S-S-Smarthome is that if there is going to be a conflagration it will probably be over and done with by the time you reach home. Since my husband Fuego passed away last year a victim of personal spontaneous combustion, I have learned to fully appreciate the warmth of the community in helping to compensate for his loss."

Mayor Edsel Furd and an appointed posse of inspectors have undertaken an informal review of the success of the recycling programme operated within the Township. This is coupled with the problem of local feral youth who are suspected of raiding recycled glass bins and extracting items of

Pet Insurance Scam Alert

Pet insurance is becoming a growth industry. Alarm bells began to ring for Royal Pet Insurance when the number of insured pets in certain households holding policies with them began to number in the hundreds.

"We were beginning to receive weekly claims from some families claiming that their loved pets were dropping like flies. We would send out investigating officers only to be shown flower strewn burial plots in gardens.

The full nature of such family tragedies is very difficult to scope.

We have begun to demand that a full coroner's certificate be supplied for the demise of any beloved pet before we are prepared to pay out.

The Austerity Housewife Inspired use of Fridge Leftovers

A new recipe book, inspired by the legendary Mrs Nesbitt, has been published under the name Frugal Foods in which Miguela Ciccolini and Lorna Strump provide recipe inspiration for times of belt tightening and frill slashing.

And all with locally sourced ingredients!

Food For Free – Living Off the Land – Austerity Should Start in the Home

The foodie sensation Off the Land that has opened in Napanee has made it a Mecca for hajji gourmets from across the province. The Odessa Oracle is carrying an exclusive on recipes which you too should be able to achieve with little effort and even less expense.

1. Coulombe du Toit: mere minutes from your thatch-eaves to the table. To expedite plucking and cleaning place coulombs in dishwasher and run through an econorinse cycle, (remember - no detergent please!) Then stuff with vine leaves if you have vines that round the thatch eaves run.

2. Escargots Riviere de Boue

- the most succulent 'bouies' are the yearlings. Test for friskiness. Avoid mutant specimens or those with multiple heads or deformed shell formations or glow-in-the-dark specimens. Escargots prefer as little cooking as possible. The challenge is in instilling confidence and enticing them out of their shells (which are generally inedible) Various cooks have different tactics but the riviere chef notes their predilection for a good brew and suggests fixing the shells to a plastercine base and inducing them to vacate towards an beckoning trough of beer while paying loud music. "I find that they respond well to the House of the Rising Sun."

3. Palourdes – du Lac de Boue or as our clients like to call them 'Pals' – again choose those that are lively and snap closed when tapped. Clam specimens floating listlessly around on top of river scum should be avoided. Prepare you 'Pals' in a large pail with a rich broth of river weed 'strangulata ripiensis' which is brought slowly to a boil.

Bon N'apaneel!

World Obesity Epidemic Comes to Odessa.

The alarming statistic that more people suffer from the health risks attached to obesity than to lack of nourishment has health service in the Odessa area worried. Jack Spratt Self-Help Societies have been springing up across the country and one has opened on Main Street in Napanee. However not all are keen to address the problems of obesity. There are dissenters particularly among the fiscally prudent who want to rein in tax moneys expended on addressing secondary diseases caused by the condition. Treating the obesity epidemic has proven much more expensive than addressing world starvation. Canada's renowned national magazine, Mugleans estimates that each obesity candidate consumes $33,300 in health support expenses annually. This contrasts unfavourably with the mere one off outlay of $476 required to bury the overnourished.

No Cutting Coroners - Please

Odessa High School has mounted a campaign to improve literacy in the local stew dint community. The popular pogram "Duh, It's a Book Stupid" has bin runing in the hi-school since setember and has rezulted in a huge outfluo of these socalled books from the shcool library. Principal Melopomone McCecile has explained that spleeing skills have devoluatd disgraciafully in the local community. "We are finding literacy canbe handie in all wakes of life. Our student body has becoming far to relinat on there spelchex funxionality. Students is always pre-paired to cutting coroners, and this is a bad idea in to daze competitive job markit." At OdHigh we are sekeing to brig out the latent perffexshunist in evry studint. DIBS is an opurtuntity to get are best studints requainted with books.

SLOW WOMEN ARE STEPPING UP TO A BRIGHTER FUTURE

We've all hear of fast food, fast cars and fast women. Now however with the slow food, and drive slow campaigns beginning to turn the tide, people are beginning to ask "Where are the slow women?" Glamorous Gary Sickone has coached thousands available young women to stand up and get what they want. "I work on breaking down basic inhibitions – with my own patented regimen of drugs and alcohol." "It has been exhausting but I would say that I have empowered thousands of once-despairing clients and brought happiness to thousands of slow women." "Basically it's just insecurity that keeps telling them 'No you can't have a slice of that action.'

New species sighted in the Odessa area are ascribed to 'global warming'

The Burbee Birds Club have set up a hide opposite Low Life's in Napanee and have meticulously photographed, measured and recorded the birds that cross its threshold. They have noted an influx of species not previously noted in the area. These are really cool specimens notes twitcher, Frank Zep. "And you should see the cars they drive." Burbees is taking advantage of local government grants to monitor influxes of wild life into area that are possibly the result of global warming trends.

"You just have to go to a place like LowLifes' in Napanee and you will encounter all kinds of radical birds."

But ya gotta think predator and set your sites on the juiciest prey. Don't be fobbed off with some desiccated old prune saying that's all you deserve."

"Remember! Slow but sure wins the race."

Capricorn 21 December-18 January, 18) Time to bow to the unexpected. With Venus in transit through the Horsehead Nebula at 10:21 EST your mood will pick up but may become far too happy go lucky. Time to dig out an Alice Munro short story.

Aquarius 19 January - 17 February Recent shake ups in your life have been unsettling. Amazingly they are breakthroughs in disguise. Resist going with the flow however which will undoubtedly be downhill.

Pisces 18 February - 19 March Don't hink Humpty Dumpty – Think Faberge. Set those sites high and realise how good things are when you stay out of hot water. Avoid suspicious worms dangling before your eyes..

Aries 20 March - 18 April As an Aries your commitment to what you believe in is unshakeable. So try this one: Giant anti-biotic resistant superbug set to sweep the Kingston area the winter. May result in end of civilisation as we know it. Only people wearing purple antlers will survive.

Taurus 19 April - 19 May Time to feed your inner pit-bull. Your torrent of brilliant ideas may be unsettling to some. Ruthful not Truthful. There times when you have to demonstrate more ruth. Buy her flowers and say sorry.

Gemini 20 May - 20 June You are brilliantly placed to deal with radical changes coming your way. Remember your stubborn streak however. Take your bi-polar personality out into the storm and enjoy the buzz.

Cancer 21 June - 21 July 1. You may have set the bar too low. It will be difficult to spike the drinks unobtrusively. However you'll regain your typical optimism and friends and family will be irredemably depressed by this.

Leo 22 July - 22 August Welcome to the feral overclass. Practice your leonine behaviour in the mirror before deployment. Go hug a hoodie. Things will turn out brilliantly if you let them.

Virgo 23 August - 21 September Events seem altogether too disruptive for your taste. But your current situation is not as bad as you thought. Everyone else's is very obviously deficient. It is time to draw this to their attention emphatically.

Libra 22 September - 22 October Remember the fortune favours the knave. Weigh up the pros and cons carefully and then chuck away those scales. Plans aren't going quite as planned, but what is actually happening behind the scenes is going to be very gratifying.

Scorpio 23 October - 21 November. Sharpen up your pincers, there is work ahead. If you are feeling underwhelmed at the moment, this should come as no surprise. Get a new tattoo and take up smoking. Consider some brushes with the law and opportunities to spend quality time at her majesty's pleasure.

Sagittarius 22 Nov. - 20 December It is time to plumb those bottomless shallows. Invest in an iPhone app to keep track of where you are at all times and check on the net worth of friends at any time of day or night. Let loose more rrows. An exciting year lies ahead.

Festival of Political Correctitudinousness

You do the sums – only 2 out of 5 of the world's population is a practicing Christian, Muslim or Jew. Believe it or Not 45% of the world population do not recognise Santa Clause as a biblical figure. We have got to face these new realities. Odessa Township Council has voted in favour of restyling the winter break as the 'Festival of the Elves and Snowflakes'. "It is fresh, topical, and uncompromisingly vapid!" enthuses spokesperson Cue Blanck. "We are soliciting voluntary assistance on translation of the new festival brochure into the 97 recognised local languages so that it will be accessible to our extended community."

Odessa's Shame - an Underclass of Feral Youth crime syndicates into drugs, sex and protection just lose hope and move on having got the message that they are not wanted here."

Amanda June of the John Birch Society rejected the mayor's claims saying, "I cannot say that referring to Odessa's younger citizens as "a ravening feral underclass of aesthetically challenged scum" is a productive avenue for addressing the problem of litter in the Shell lube forecourt.

Recently Odessa Mayor Edsel Furd has announced a zero tolerance clamp-down on litter in the Greater Odessa Area with a no nonsense 'Three Strikes and You're In Campaign. This week he has set his sights on tackling unsightly litter in the ShellLube forecourt. He explains, "If the mayors of New York can engineer social harmony from the ground up then so can we. Their experience has shown that if you clamp down on litterbugs and lock away the aesthetically challenged, then the residual society becomes a lot more tolerable. Other

Let's OCCU-Pirates move on from Wall Street to Establish in Odessa Main

Odessa's central business district has been paralysed by groups of feral youths who are proposing to prevent access to key monuments in the city centre by pitching tents and setting up think tanks at key intersections. The deacon of St Xaviers Non-Denom got wind of their plans when he received a letter requesting a list of all of the 'Key Monuments' in the area. Rev. Stacey Williams wracked his brains for days before he wrote back enquiring why they were required. Then the hateful truth emerged. "A truly nefarious plot to separate the people of Odessa from their heritage.

Lottery Winner Bags 210 million euros !

Lottery winner Vera McGubbins never imagined that when she chose those six numbers related to her kitties' birth dates that she would become the grand winner of the Euro Lotto, with a jackpot of 220 million euros.

"I owe it all to my darling pussies. I dunno what a euro can buy but owning 220 million of them has got to be good."

She enthused as she accepted a giant scaled cheque presented to her in Brussels. "Their lives are going to take a big step forward as of pronto. At last I have some dosh on hand to help realise their dreams!"

Vera has already put in a successful offer on Lark Lodge on Odessa's historic Central Street with its prime site overlooking the Mud River. Extensive renovations are underway to the old mansion including a heated indoor cat gym, korinthian kitty scratching post corral, an aviary and offices for feline wardrobe management. "When I was a girl I used to walk by that old homestead on the way to school. I'd see old lady Lark in the front garden pulling up weeds. All high 'n mighty she would never dream of saying hello to a low class girl on her way to school. She and her German shepherd Baron Von Munschhausen or Munchie were above all us lot. Munchie used to snarl at me through the fence in the way that dogs always do."

the Lady of Lark Lodge and trample underfoot the memory of that old frump and her canine accomplice. I can now dedicate its grounds to the happiness of my darlings, little Toby, Zillah, Cootie, and the rest." A large encampment of local cat lovers has even set up on the vacant lot across the street to welcome Vera to her new home and offer a wide range of services.

"It's nice to be part of a real cat loving community again. For years me'n my pussies have been living in a single room above Knotty Knitting out in the boonies, not being able to afford the exorbitant rents in downtown Odessa. The poor creatures couldn't even go out because of the traffic on the highway and their naps were disturbed by the constant rumble of the knitting machines below. Now they will be able to romp freely in the grounds once patrolled by that odious Munchie.

"Never did I imagine that one day I would be in a position to take over as

Green Smarts - New Low Carbon Speed Limit

New Minis burn environmentally friendly Biofuels

The Ontario Ministry of Transport is proposing to increase the speed limit on major highways for low carbon emissions vehicles. The Ontario Government in conjunction with the Canadian Automobile Association, has resolved to adopt the Green Smartz Programme to reward those who are living a low-carbon lifestyle. The proposed policy will allow operators of low emissions vehicles to increase their speed limit from the current 100kph maximum to 150kph. This proposal is intended to incentivise the drivers of low emissions vehicles. Minister Donald Flem explains the concept. "In today's world speed has become the defining mantra of our competitive society and Green aficionados should see that they are onto a winner." Testing has proven conclusively that the less time you spend driving, the less the amount of fuel consumed.
